Disease Epidemics Sweep Over Germany, England, Spain

SMALLPOX AND INFLUENZA HIT THREE NATIONS

Mild Weather Following Severe Winter Given As Cause

(By Universal Service)
BALBOA, Spain, Jan. 12.—The epidemic of influenza assumed alarming proportions today. Eighty-three new cases have been reported since yesterday in Balboa and ninety-eight in the provinces. The number of deaths from the gripe are multiplying throughout Spain. Some cities closed their schools, children are forbidden going to the theaters in others. Cafes and theaters are being closed in still others.

Doctors attribute the epidemic to the unusually mild spring weather which Spain is experiencing after a record cold wave.

Smallpox Wave

LONDON, Jan. 12.—A wave of smallpox sweeping over north England brings fear of a serious epidemic. It was reported today. Sheffield reported thirty-one new cases of smallpox since noon yesterday making a total of sixty-nine cases since Sunday. Many people are hanging up onions in their houses as this measure, it is believed, has the power to ward off disease. A large number of vaccinations were also reported.

Influenza Spreads

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—Rain accompanied by floods is spreading the epidemic of influenza. Officials deny the existence of an epidemic although the number of victims is constantly increasing. The floods are concentrated around the Rhine Valley in southwest Germany.

15,000 TROOPS NOW ON BORDER

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The United States has a mobile force of 15,000 troops along the Mexican border in the event of an emergency, the war department announced today.

These are the only completely organized infantry and cavalry division in the service. It was stated. War plans call for the use of cavalry almost exclusively in territory like that of Mexico. They are the second infantry with headquarters at San Antonio, and the first cavalry with headquarters in El Paso.

The infantry is commanded by Major General William D. Connor. It is made up of the 1st, 9th, 20th and 21st infantry regiments and the 12th and 15th field artillery. There are 380 officers and 6,160 men. This is about 50 percent of war strength.

The cavalry is commanded by Major General Edwin B. Wines. It is made up of the 7th and 8th cavalry, one battalion of the 82nd field artillery and one battalion of the 8th engineers.

The strength of this unit is 2,000 men. Scattered along the border there are other cavalry units at Forts Brown, Ringgold, McIntosh, Clark, Jones, Hauchuca and Steven D. Little.

BUILDING PERMITS

Building permits were issued by City Building Inspector A. J. Hurley yesterday to J. B. Simmons, to construct a garage on the south side of Sixth street between Nevins and Ripley, at a cost of $50; Charles M. Wiggins, to construct a one story building on the north side of Cutting Boulevard on the corner of Fourteenth, at a cost of $450; U. J. Lealle to construct a chicken house on the west side of Twentieth street near the Southern Pacific tracks, at a cost of $75.

MovieCzarMay Take Hand In FamousChaplin Divorce Action

Property of Star in Hands Of Receiver; Police On Guard

(By Universal Service)
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—With Will Hays, "czar" of the screen world speeding toward Los Angeles, on an unknown mission, speculation was rife in the film colony today as to whether he is coming to take a hand in the Charlie Chaplin divorce case.

Hays is due here the latter part of this week, according to information received at his Hollywood headquarters this afternoon. While all the rank and file of the motion picture industry here waited expectantly for developments following Hays' arrival, attorneys for Chaplin were preparing to wage a vigorous court battle against the receivership which was imposed upon the comedian's $16,000,000 estate yesterday.

Detectives employed by the receivers, W. I. Gilbert, an attorney, and Herman Spitzell, realtor, were in charge of two of Chaplin's most valuable possessions—his studio covering many acres, valued at millions of dollars, and his luxurious home in Beverly Hills. There have been many strange guests at the studio on sight-seeing tours, but never before have armed custodians scanned the faces of callers at the entrance gates.

109 TAKEN IN GAMBLING RAID

(By Universal Service)
CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Like the black wall of a wave that tosses a ship at sea, Sheriff Charles E. Graddon's forces descended on "The Ship," famous gambling dive here today.

The resort, known as one of the most famous in all of Chicago's bad lands, yielded plenty of evidence of gambling and immorality. One hundred and nine persons were taken into custody by the raiders who were led by Chief Michael Hughes of the county highway police.

"The Ship" has long been known as the headquarters of "Scarface Al" Capone, beer gangster. It is located in Cicero.

So swiftly and surely did the officers work that the lookout let out just one short yelp, before he was taken into custody. The officers entered the place and went down a long corridor to the gaming room. When the door failed to yield to the touch, it was battered down with an axe.

Many gamblers ran for the exits, but drawn revolvers brought them all back. It is believed that not one of the players escaped. The roulette wheels and all of the apparatus was wrecked with axes.

Hays May Meet Chaplin Soon

(By Universal Service)
NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 12.—Will Hays, czar of Movieland probably will confer with Charlie Chaplin at Edgewater Beach, Miss., within a few days he admitted here today.

Hays was here attending the races and planned to go to the Mississippi city tonight, where he is expecting a visit from the movie comedian.

The conference will concern, it is said, the divorce suit which was filed against Chaplin this week by Lita Grey Chaplin.

Motorists Have Desire To Die Officer Thinks

BAY POINT, Jan. 12.—Traffic Officer J. R. MacGuire, stationed at the Santa Fe Southern Pacific and San Francisco-Sacramento Short Line railroad crossing, believes that many California motorists have an acute desire to be killed or mutilated. Eight months' exposure of "Stop, Look and Listen" has convinced him, he declares, that people deliberately break traffic rules when the disobedience may mean death.

"The public won't learn," MacGuire stated. "They don't want to learn and with 17 trucks at this point of the Bay Point-Oakland highway, I find that only a few bring their cars and trucks to a full stop. Every day I see autoists in pinches where lives depend upon the grip of the brakes."

MacGuire pursues the policy of talking to motorists who are stopped at the railroad crossing, believing that a personal warning has its effect where printed signs fail to impress.

(By Universal Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—Southern Pacific company will file tomorrow with the Interstate Commerce commission an application, first, to acquire the railroad properties of the Oregon and California Railroad company and of the Marion and Linn County Railroad company, and second, to authorize a proposed bond issue not exceeding $100,000,000 in value upon the properties so acquired, together with other railroad lines in Oregon owned by Southern Pacific company. President William Sproule announced tonight.

(A)—To refund the outstanding bonds of the Oregon and California Railroad company, which mature July 1, 1927, in the principal sum of $17,437,000, less approximately $2,177,618.08 applicable to the discharge of such bonds which has been paid by the government to the Central Union Trust company of New York, pursuant to decree of the United States District Court in an action.

PART OF LOOT FROM CLEANING FIRM IS FOUND

Thief Takes Four Best Suits, Overcoat and Leaves Remainder

Acting on information furnished by the Hayward police that part of the loot taken from the C. O. Q. cleaning establishment at 2409 Alameda avenue Tuesday night had been recovered, Chief of Police Dan Cox and Captain H. V. Shirley yesterday identified the clothing as part of that secured in the robbery. Six complete suits, one pair of trousers, and a vest were discovered by the caretaker of a vacant sandwich house and gas station on the Castro Valley highway early yesterday morning. He made a prompt report to the authorities and a few hours after word of the theft had been flashed to surrounding cities. Hayward police reported that the suits found bore the C. O. D. mark. M. Solisio, proprietor of the cleaning establishment, further identified the clothing, but claims that four of the best suits taken, all of about the same size, "one overcoat and two hats are still in the hands of the prowlers. The value of the loot unrecovered as yet amounts to about $300.

In order to gain entry into the building the robbers removed the hinges of a door in the rear of the establishment and confined their looting to the drying room. Nothing in the front of the place was taken, though there was a large amount of clothing there, but in view of the street. Police believe that the burglars were familiar with the plan of the building, and perhaps known to the watchdog kept in the place, for the annual raised no commotion.

Loss of the clothing is fully covered by insurance. The establishment was visited by prowlers two years ago, but nothing of any value taken.

ASSAULT TRIAL TO GO TO JURY

The trial of E. C. Marshall, local negro will be placed in the hands of the jury in the court of Superior Judge H. V. Alvarado at Martinez this morning. Marshall is facing trial on a charge of assault with intent to murder W. H. Lowerie, Richmond truck dealer, as the result of a fight in North Richmond in November.

Yesterday was spent in the arguments of the opposing attorneys. The finishing argument will be made today by Deputy District Attorney James F. Hoey, who with Deputy District Attorney Hilman E. Jacobs is prosecuting the case. The jury will receive its instructions from Judge Alvarado.

Marshall is defended by Attorney Will Robinson.

A $20,000 damage suit is pending against Marshall.

Constable Ends 34 Year Term

BRENTWOOD, Jan. 12.—Defeated for the second time in 34 years, Constable Geo. H. Shafer goes into retirement from the police force of this town. Shafer's term of service has been continuous with the exception of one four year period. During the remainder of the time he has been continuously re-elected constable, and was deputy under Sheriff R. R. Veale in his tenure of office.

Shafer was recently defeated by Frank A. Lawrence in a close contest. He plans to continue work in his undertaking parlors, and will spend much of his time on his ranch near Brentwood.

P. M. Sanford Re-Elected As President Of Local Chamber Of Commerce At Directors Meet

By a unanimous vote of the directors, P. M. Sanford was re-elected president of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce at the first 1927 meeting held at the Hotel Carquinez yesterday. E. B. Bull was returned as first vice president and Charles S. Renwick, re-elected second vice president.

In nominating Sanford, E. B. Bull, who asked the second vice president, C. S. Renwick, to preside, declared that the splendid record of 1926, of the Chamber of Commerce, was sufficient tribute to the presiding officer who had given of his time and his energy to the cause of the chamber of commerce to assure the membership and the community at large that Sanford was the man for the job. Bull's nomination of President Sanford was seconded by J. F. Brooks and Larkin J. Younce moved that nominations be closed.

In accepting the presidency for a second term, President Sanford declared that whatever success he had attained with the chamber of commerce during the past year was due in a large manner to the splendid support given him by the directors of the organization and the members.

"I hesitate in undertaking the job for another year," he said. "I feel that it needs a bigger man than I am to do the job. However, if I can count upon the same loyal support, the same fine co-operation, the same interest even to a greater degree, I shall be happy to undertake the task."

E. B. Bull was placed in nomination for vice president by Director F. S. Newsom and unanimously elected. C. S. Renwick was nominated by Director E. M. Downer for second vice president and again the vote was unanimous. The Richmond Chamber of Commerce has no liabilities and is entirely free of debt and there is a substantial cash balance on hand, according to the report of Fred Caudle, director and auditor of the chamber of commerce.

In order that the chamber may have sufficient funds to carry on important work during the present year, President Sanford announced that he would appoint a membership committee within the next few days whose first task would be to get more members.

Director W. W. Scott made a brief report as chairman of the street committee in which he touched briefly upon the proposal to construct an industrial boulevard from Richmond to Oakland along the waterfront. He said that City Planning Engineer Carol Aronovitch was working out the details. Scott also told of the efforts to widen and extend and open up Tenth street north and Garrard boulevard north and east.

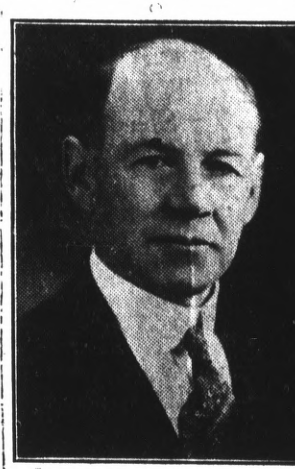

These measures are advocated that a more direct route into downtown Richmond and to the San Francisco auto ferry may be made available to motorists coming into Richmond along San Pablo avenue.

Directors present at yesterday's meeting were E. B. Bull, C. S. Renwick, W. T. Helms, T. H. DeLap, J. F. Brooks, E. M. Downer, Geo. N. Rooker, W. W. Scott, Fred Caudle, James A. McVittie, Fred S. Newsom, Larkin J. Younce, M. A. Hays, Aubrey Wilson and Harry Alberts.

Alberts is the newly elected director, who succeeds O. R. Lude.

Jail Term Given "Petting" Bandits

(By Universal Service)
OAKLAND, Jan. 12.—Cecil H. Garvie, 20, and Charles C. Henderson, 20, Oakland "petting party bandits" who preyed upon parked couples in the fashionable Lake Merritt district, today were sentenced by Superior Judge Leon Gray to San Quentin prison for terms of from five years to life. They had pleaded guilty.

P. M. SANFORD

wig. President Sanford welcomed Alberts to the directorship and assured him that his advice, his business judgment, his interest in Richmond's community affairs was highly desired by the chamber of commerce. President Sanford also paid a high tribute to retiring director, Ludewig, saying that Director Ludewig had worked unselfishly and energetically and cheerfully for those things that meant much for the chamber and for the city at large.

COUNCIL AND C. C. DISCUSS HARBOR PLANS

Matters in connection with the coming of the Ford Motor company, and the development of the Richmond waterfront are taking place rapidly and to discuss the problems that the city has to deal with in the future an informal committee meeting of members of the council and the chamber of commerce was held at the city hall last evening.

The general harbor situation was discussed from all angles, and while it was generally agreed that the proposed improvements at the waterfront which will take care of the immediate needs of the Ford Motor company, there were many of the opinion that to place Richmond in the front ranks as a shipping port, and provide for the shipping of the future, that at least a 400 foot channel would have to be provided.

In order to cope with the situation, a special meeting of the directors of the chamber of commerce will be held Wednesday at noon, when the matter will be gone into thoroughly.

In addition to the directors, there will be present representing the city of Richmond, Mayor Mattie A. Chandler, City Manager J. A. McVittie, City Attorney T. M. Carlson, and Councilmen W. W. Scott, and George F. Black. They will give the chamber of commerce all the information that is desired.

It is likely that as a result of the Wednesday meeting that a request will be made to the council that it call a bond issue.

PLOT AGAINST U. S. BY 'REDS' IS REVEALED

"Red" Plot Revealed to Senate Committee by Sec. Kellogg

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Sentiment in congress behind the firm policy of President Coolidge in Latin-America was firmly forged today by the appearance of Secretary of State Kellogg before the senate foreign relations committee.

While the direct charge by Kellogg that Russian Bolshevik leaders are using Mexico and other Latin-American countries as a base of operation against the United States in "their general program of world revolution" created a profound impression upon the members of the committee it failed to produce the long awaited sensation.

The stage was set for startling disclosures. Kellogg went to the capital attended by several state department aides who were laden with portfolios supposedly containing highly confidential documents regarding Communist activities in Mexico and Nicaragua, to justify the government's policy.

The secretary was closeted with the committee for over three hours. More secrecy precautions were invoked and even the regular senate stenographer was excluded and Kellogg's private secretary mustered into service to take the testimony. All members of the committee were pledged to the strictest secrecy.

Although the documents produced by Kellogg showed that Bolshevik leaders in Moscow are directing the activities of "Reds" in Mexico and other Latin-American nations in opposition to the alleged "imperialistic aims" of the United States the revelations were not new. On prior occasions the charges have been categorically denied by the Mexican government that it was lending itself to any "Red" revolutionary plot against the United States.

Some of the documents produced by Kellogg to sustain his charge of Bolshevism in Mexico tended to discount the charge. It was shown that the Mexican Federation of Labor, the backbone of President Calles' support went on record vigorously disapproving of radical activities by the Communists, denounced them as "enemies of the government" and warned the Soviet minister against fostering such activities in Mexico.

Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letters should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received, only a few can be answered by Dr. Brady. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. LET'S COUNT OUR VITAMINS

First we had better pronounce them vitamins, accenting the final syllable and making the eye follow. Some people think they are pronounced like vites.

As nearly as I can learn, there are about half a dozen vitamins now postulated. They are designated vitamin A, vitamin B, vitamin C, vitamin D, vitamin E and so on. So one has identified a vitamin by yet, and so I say the vitamins are postulated, assumed to exist as substances.

Vitamin A is present in certain fats, such as butter, egg yolk and cod liver oil. Natural sources of vitamin A are fresh milk, spinach, lettuce, water cress, celery leaves, beet greens, turnip tops, radish tops and other leafy vegetables. Carrots and other yellow pigment, or roots such as sweet potatoes, contain vitamin A in greater amounts than do red pigmented roots such as beets or white roots such as potatoes, turnips, parsnips or radishes. Yellow corn contains vitamin A, but white corn does not. Vitamin A is present in liver, kidney and sweetbreads but not in muscle or flesh meat and only little of it in animal or vegetable or nut fats in general.

A supply of vitamin A is essential in the diet to enable the body to develop full normal or natural immunity against certain respiratory infections, and to prevent ophthalmia, a form of eye disease rarely encountered in the United States but not rare among the poorly nourished children in the Orient, and sometimes found in Denmark, Labrador, Japan, and Newfoundland. In Newfoundland this ophthalmia has been the cause of considerable blindness among the fishermen and their families, who subsist for most of the year on a diet of white bread, pork, salt fish, raisins and tea.

When the diet is deficient in vitamin A, no tears are produced, the eyeball becomes dry, and then ulcer of the cornea or other damage follows. In animals there is a failure also to produce saliva and eating becomes impossible because the mouth is so dry. Japanese and Manchurian children suffering from deprivation of vitamin A make facial grimaces as though crying, but no sound. Chickens deprived of vitamin A do not grow, develop ophthalmia and uric acid concretions in the kidneys—the kidneys feel like bags of sand.

Vitamin A is destroyed by oxidation, so that prolonged heating or cooking of foods containing it destroys the vitamin, though ordinary cooking does not necessarily destroy all of it.

Liver has been fed to suffer from ophthalmia in Japan and India for years, as a cure. In India they sometimes applied fresh raw liver locally to the eyes.

Liver is one of the best sources of vitamin A. Ordinary cooking doesn't destroy the factor in liver. Cooked liver as an article of diet has earned a certain reputation as a remedy for low blood pressure and as a remedy for severe anemia. How much value the food has for these purposes I am unable to say. At any rate it does no harm to eat it frequently.

Vitamin A, then, is necessary for normal growth of young animals or children, for the development of full immunity against respiratory infections, for the prevention of dry eyes, ophthalmia and night blindness (which means inability to see even in slight darkness). This vitamin is not easily destroyed by heating or cooking. Good sources of vitamin A are butter, fresh milk, egg yolk, cod liver oil, liver, sweetbreads, green leafy vegetables, carrots, sweet potatoes, bananas.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Sweating Palms

My hands perspire continually when at work. As I am an artist, this causes untidiness. (H.L.)
Answer: If you do not mind temporary yellow staining of the skin of the palms, paint the palms and palmar surfaces of the fingers once daily for four or five days with the following solution, allowing it to dry on the skin:

Chronic acid 30 grains
Distilled water One ounce
This will relieve the sweating for some weeks, and then it must be used again. If the staining is objectionable, the next best thing is the following solution which should be painted on each night:

Formaldehyde One dram
Sodium carbonate One dram
Distilled water Four ounces
Or in mild cases of sweating of the hands the regular use of the following powder at night will suffice:

Salicylic acid, 5 parts or say 1 dram; Boric acid, 10 parts or say 2 drams; Tartaric acid, 10 parts or say 2 drams; Zinc oxide, 40 parts or say 1 ounce; Talc, 40 parts or say 1 ounce.
The Pursuit of Unhealthy Humidity

I read with great interest your advice on "The Sere and Sallow Wife." I wish to ask if I were to evaporate 100 gallons of cold water in each 8,000 cubic foot of space in my home every 24 hours would my coal bill be materially decreased? Would this be beneficial from a health standpoint? Does lack of humidity affect the throat and nose? (G. H.)

Answer—In order to maintain a reasonably fair humidity about fifteen gallons of water must be evaporated each 24 hours in 8,000 cubic feet of air if the household temperature is not permitted to rise above 65 degrees. If the temperature gets up to or above 70 you must evaporate at least 20 gallons a day. If the temperature is 65 perhaps 10 gallons is enough.

WHAT'S WRONG HERE

Answer—Here is a sad state of affairs and leads us to believe that the visit of the Prince of Wales had no lasting beneficial effect upon our country. A gentleman should always make it a point to dress for dinner and appear as neat and clean as a new celluloid collar. He who approaches his visitors in a careless attitude, we fear, be more or less "Charlotte Rousset" in our most expensive homes.

NANCY, BETTY AND ANN
I see by the papers that John Rockefeller, Jr. is erecting a $500,000 gym where he can play with his boys, his purpose being, as he states it, "To provide a safe and sane place where my boys may play and where I may realize my ambition to be their pal."

Very pretty business, but we fathers and mothers need to guard them from what I've been thinking: "What's going to be getting into it?" Mother will send me to meet me with the city bus, oh how different life would have seemed if she had ever come for me herself, just out of the blue, with me, of course, and you have a long way to go after we get in.

Said Ann: "My father, I think, meets me! Girls, I've been asking in my heart ever since you've been editing his papers, if you wish, you had a father like mine! He is my 'pal' the most intimate friend I have and the one I love the most in the world. Mother died when I was a tiny thing, and Dad has always treated me as if he were my best friend. Never for one minute has he allowed me to miss my Mother in anything. He talks with me as if he considered me his intellectual equal and that has been a splendid stimulating force in my studies. He takes a real interest in hearing anything and everything I have to say about the people I meet, my work, my play, my dreams. He looks over my shoulder when I'm writing, and proves for anyone I trust his judgment. I know he gives every one a 'square deal'."

"When I make a fool of myself I never 'traid to tell him. All about it. He listens to my tale of woe—sympathies first—then advises; helps me back on a self-respect level and is sure I shall be more sensible next time. If I haven't made the painful mistake so many of us do, it's entirely owing to Dad's love and his faith in me and my absolute horror of ever making him too ashamed or sorry."

"What girls need most, and boys too, I suppose, is a little 'PAL' in a parent, and if it wasn't being TOO greedy, I would like a husband as honest, as tender, and as fine a comrade, as my blessed Dad—but it hardly seems possible that two such angels could happen twice in the life of one girl."

Said Nancy: "Ann, you're the luckiest girl in the world!"
Said Betty: "Should think you'd be careful not to disappoint a father like that! Oh, why don't they all be the Real Thing?"

"A Grateful Reader."

The Marriage Game

As Played to a Decision
Every Day By
Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hutton

VOCATIONS BY LAW

HER PLAY: Laws are always made by men—that's why they never work. It's a wonder the men wouldn't wake up and let women draft purely social laws. For a hundred years men have tinkered with divorce laws and all that has been accomplished has been to break up homes in forty-four different ways in forty-four different states. Divorce is no remedy for a marriage grown irksome. If women had their say there would be a law granting limited separations. And you men would be amazed how beautifully it would work out.

HIS COUNTERPLAY: I have a good idea that we would be amazed and more. It is your idea to give various vocations to erring husbands and faulty wives, is it? I speak roughly to you, yet get a month's vacation with pay and if you scorch the oatmeal I get a trip to Monte Carlo. If I suspect you of flirting with your dentist I get a year's leave of absence and if you find a bond man on my lapel you would be entitled to spend the winter in Paris. Yes, darling, that's a wonderful idea. Absolutely wonderful!

THE REFEREE: The lady's sincerity is touching but the gentleman's cruel common sense is heartiest. His day.

SYNOPSIS
John Ballard, left poor by the fate that drives him from his parents, works his way through college, meets and loves Viola Ruskin, and devotes his law career to fighting negligent railroads because of the vendetta he cherishes against them for killing his parents. Phil Hardin, old college chum, offers him a staggering salary to join the legal staff of the railroad. John wavers; it would be his chance to speak his heart to Viola. Phil proposes to Viola. She, loving John, makes Phil wait; but through misunderstanding, John and Viola each thinks the other doesn't care.

CHAPTER VI
Ten years is a long time. Much can—and usually does—happen in ten years. The whole course of many lives can be changed. The history of a city, a state, a nation, can be shaped for all future time in ten years.

In the ten years that followed the day on which John Ballard heard of Viola Ruskin's engagement to Phil Hardin much, much of significance and importance, had come about.

First of all, in John's memories, was Viola's marriage. He hadn't seen her again; he had contrived to be away on business, at the time of her wedding. And, though Phil had asked him, more than once, to come to see them, he hadn't, for a long time, felt able to do so; hadn't been willing to trust himself to see the woman he loved as another man's wife.

John Ballard had gone on, doing his work, quietly, unobtrusively, efficiently. His practice had grown, slowly, but with a sure, safe reputation as a dogged, hard fighting lawyer; a lawyer who, once he was in a case, never let go; a man never beaten until the case was settled. Poor folks came to know that they could trust him to guard their interests; that he could be swayed by no influence, no hope of great rewards.

Thanks to the interest of George Warren and the Ventnor Sun, his newspaper, which was the dominant journal of the state, John's name began to be well known. His more important cases were fully reported; he came in, from time to time, for friendly comment on the editorial page. More important and richer clients came to him. He was called in to his choice of his clients; he would take the corporation business of a certain type, though much of it was offered to him, and Phil Hardin's offer to him was frequently renewed, and, in fact, greatly increased. He met Jordan, a year or so after his talk with Phil, and that great man asked him, frankly, why he would not come to the N. Y. and C. V.

"I liked your looks while you were in college. I told you, to come and see me. You never did. Why not?"
"I didn't want anything from you, Mr. Jordan," said John.

"Most people do," said Jordan. "It would have been a relief to see a young man who didn't. But I sent for you. I caused an offer to be made to you. You refused it. It's been renewed. I'm prepared to renew it now—and to let you name your own figure. I want you—and when I want a man I always get him."

"You won't get me, Mr. Jordan. I—well, I'm not for sale."
Jordan stared at him.
"Be careful," he said. "I'm anxious to be your friend. Don't turn me into your enemy."

"There's no reason for you to be my enemy—I'm not yours," said John, quietly.
"Any man we want who is not for sale is against us—sooner or later," said Jordan.

"I can't speak for the future," said John. "Is there any reason that you know why I should be against you, Mr. Jordan?"
Jordan stared at him, his eyes drawn together in a frown.

THE LEGION ON ARMAMENT

The demands of socialists communists and many-vestured pacifists do not much impress the great American Legion. The Legion members know more about the "horrors of war" than all the yapping pack of enemies and parasites in this country who spend their time in making appeals for the abandonment of our national defense. The Legion served in the world's greatest, most horrible war. Officers and members of the Legion do not wish again to experience the "horrors of war." To this end they are doing everything that in their power lies to assist in the prevention of war, and it is their belief that the way for the United States to adopt in order to attain to a reasonable degree of national security is to keep the nation so well defended that no other power or powers will care to engage us in combat.

This country wants no more war but the slightest study of conditions in Europe and parts of Asia since the signing of the armistice sufficiently indicates that war remains a very strong probability. In coming wars the United States has no wish to have a part; it need have no part if it keeps itself well defended and competent to refuse to be drawn into conflict, or competent to enter such conflict in behalf of a righteous cause with sufficient power and prestige to influence the determination of battle in the interest of humanity and justice.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Chicago is now proposing to build the largest and best jail in the world and it is to be supposed that in order to protect its gunmen its walls will be bullet proof.

Men Who Made the World

FERNANDO CORT EZ

By Dr. Elliot Shoring, the Noted Historian

GREAT DAMAGE WAS INFLICTED ON THE SPANIARDS BY AZTECS WHO HELD THE LOFTY TERRACES OF THE GREAT TEMPLE OF THE WAR GODS WHICH OVERLOOKED CORT EZ'S QUARTERS. HE DECIDED IT MUST BE TAKEN AT ALL COSTS OR THEIR QUARTERS WOULD BE DESTROYED. WITH SOME THREE HUNDRED OF THE BEST FIGHTERS AMONG THE SPANIARDS AND SEVERAL THOUSAND OF THE TASCALANS WHO WERE FIGHTING VALIANTLY WITH HIM HE STARTED THE ASSAULT. LEAVING THE TASCALANS TO DEFEND THE BOTTOM OF THE STAIRWAY WITH HIM HE STARTED ATTACKING THE AZTECS, STARTED UP—SOME FIVE HUNDRED AZTECS WERE ON THE TERRACES. WITH SPEARS THEY FOUGHT THE SPANIARDS, STARTED UP—SOME FIVE HUNDRED AZTECS WERE ON THE TERRACES. WITH STONES AND GREAT MASSES OF BURNING WOOD DOWN ON THE HARD PRESSED INVADERS. THE TREMENDOUS SUPERIORITY OF THE SPANISH FIREARMS, SWORDS AND STEEL ARMOR FINALLY PREVAILED AGAINST THE WAR CLUB, SPEARS, ARROWS AND NAKED BODIES OF THE AZTECS AND THEY REACHED THE UNBROKEN FLAT STONE SURFACE OF THE TEMPLE.

RETREAT FOR EITHER SIDE WAS NOW IMPOSSIBLE. THE CHIVALRY, THE VERY FLOWER OF THE FIGHTING MAN, HOOD OF TWO WORLDS WAS NOW LOCKED IN A STRUGGLE TO THE DEATH ON A LOFTY PLATFORM BETWEEN FIGHT BETWEEN MAN AND MAN THAT WAS NOW FOUGHT OUT BETWEEN THREE HUNDRED SPANIARDS AND FIVE HUNDRED AZTECS. IN THE FURIOUS FIGHTING THAT RAGED BLOODILY, NEITHER SIDE EITHER ASKED OR GAVE QUARTER. RACES BELOW OR WERE SLAIN BY THE PYRAMID AND FELL, CRUSHED AND MANGLED TO DEATH ON THE TERRACES. FOR THREE MORTAL HOURS FIGHT HUNDREDS OF MEN SWAYED TO AND FRO, FROM SIDE TO SIDE ON THIS PERILOUS STAGE, SO APPROPRIATELY DEDICATED TO THE GOD OF WAR. SUPERIOR EQUIPMENT FINALLY GAVE A DEARLY BOUGHT VICTORY TO THE SPANIARDS, BUT NOT A SINGLE AZTEC WARRIOR WAS LEFT ALIVE TO GRACE THEIR TRIUMPH. TO THE LAST MAN THEY HAD FALLEN IN A HEROIC DEFENSE OF THEIR GODS. THE ARMS OF SPANIARDS FARED BETTER. FORTY-FIVE HAD FALLEN, MANY WERE DANGEROUSLY WOUNDED AND ALL BOYS OF COURAGE ATTESTING THE VALOR OF THE NAKED AZTECS.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Tonic Pills

The Old Reliable Family Remedy for Building Up the System, Nervous Affections, Insomnia, etc.

In this strenuous age, most people are afflicted with some form of nervous trouble. Hospitals are overflowing with men and women seeking to win back health of body and mind. If you are nervous, irritable, "jumpy," if your system is run down, if you feel that you may be on the verge of a nervous breakdown, read what F. J. Cole, of 628 S. Lambert Street, Brazil, Indiana, says:

"It would be hard for me to tell how much good I have received from the use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Tonic (nerve) Pills. I was so run down in health I could hardly go. I had no appetite. Could not sleep or rest. I was weak and so very nervous. I suffered some pain but the worst of my trouble was because being so weak and easy to get tired the nervous condition was worse than the pain."

"I decided to use your Tonic (nerve) Pills. A few boxes restored me to perfect health. I can eat and sleep well. I have never found anything better for a rundown nervous condition."

NEW YORK IS BACKGROUND OF RICHMOND FILM

Everyone in America holds a peculiar corner of his heart reserved for New York—those who have been there look back on it with yearning memories—those who have not look forward to a visit with eager anticipation.

Thus it is not surprising, and peculiar, which have as a background the swirling, swirling atmosphere of Broadway and Manhattan have a unique appeal to Americans—the heart of the great city's business life, the life of its twinkling, twinkling lights, the life of its electric energy, all from a tremendous attraction to Mr. and Mrs. U. S. Cohen.

And in mind, First National has released another rich background in that city. It is a background in the world's imagination, a background of a young girl on Broadway who dreamed of a million on Fifth Avenue.

Corinne Griffith, who became to so many millions of movie goers the champion of the working girl's romance in her screen triumph, "Classified," was again selected to star in this new tale of Broadway, "Synchrizing Sue," which opened last night at the Richmond theatre to a capacity house.

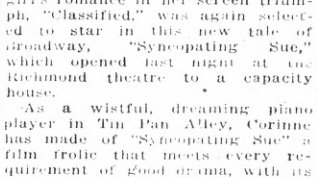

As a wistful, dreaming piano player in "Tin Pan Alley," Corinne has made of "Synchrizing Sue" a film role that meets every requirement of good drama, with its tender pathos, its touching romance, its screamingly funny comedy relief.

Tom Moore, handsome hero of a hundred human screen romances, is the ideal lead for Miss Griffith in this whimsical tale of Rockefeller Boulevard, Joyce Kilmer, Lee Moran, and Sunshine Hart round out the cast, which Richard Wallace directed.

Last night's audience liked the show immensely. You should too. Other features include "Honest Injun," a Johnny Arthur comedy, "Sportlight," and "Prizma."

My Boy Friend

Colleen Moore and Kenneth Harlan in a scene from "TWINKLETOES," now being screened at the California theatre.

Speaking of being "on your toes," you should see Colleen Moore in "Twinkletoes," now at the California theatre. She's on her toes in both senses of the word here.

As a music hall dancer, too, dancing is only part of her exhibit in the picture, which includes a little dance in the London Limehouse district, while a mob that had been fighting furiously looks on to find the "bobbies" who have come to quell a riot!

Then there's a beautiful dance she performs in a dream sequence, and a series of dances of all varieties executed as headlining dancer at the Limehouse music hall, at the head of the "Quayside Chorus."

The skill displayed by Colleen in these scenes is the result of years of practice in general dancing and of two months of intensive training for the particular ones she uses in "Twinkletoes."

The picture, which is Colleen's most ambitious to date, brings the star to the screen as the heroine of one of Thomas Burke's famous Limehouse tales, in a map of golden curls. The role is as different from her customary ones as is her appearance. In the supporting cast are Kenneth Harlan, Tully Marshall and other capable players.

Other features on the same program include "Napoleon, Jr., an animal comedy; Hy Mayer's cartoon, "International News;" and "Harry Canelo at the organ."

Carlessness Cause Of Most Fires Kiwanians Told

Carlessness causes ninety percent of the fires in the United States that cause $500,000,000 damages each year, according to A. J. Shively, San Francisco manager of the Insurance Federation of California who talked before the members of the Kiwanis club yesterday on "Fire Protection."

"Few people realize the amount of loss by fire each year," he said. "I am a smoker myself and I and most other people know how to avoid fire danger from this standpoint but despite this fact, $900,000,000 damage is caused annually by careless smokers."

He pointed out the difference between fire protection and fire prevention. He said that fire prevention is elimination of the cause of fires while fire protection is the facilities to combat flames after they are once started.

He lauded Richmond for its record per capita loss of 29 cents. He especially complimented Fire Chief W. P. Cooper and Assistant Chief J. J. Barry for their courtesy in giving out information for fire prevention and for their work in fighting fires.

Barry was chairman of the day. Bert Scoble entertained with vocal selections. Hall W. Sanders told of the district convention to be held in Modesto on January 22.

Guide to good things

GRANDMOTHER could tell, by rubbing it in her hand, whether the goods in a suit or overcoat was all-wool. Grandfather could tell good leather by the feel of it. Both had ways, or thought they had, of knowing good silver, brass or copper.

But you buy so many more things than our grandparents did, that it is almost impossible to be a judge of quality in everything you buy. In this age, only a specialist could really know even a small part of the many things used in your home, if the trade-marks and trade-names were left off them.

Advertising has taken the place of grandfather's and grandmother's knowledge. You may be sure a thing advertised is as represented. If it is not, the person making it and the one selling it will quickly lose your confidence and your patronage. People do not dare misrepresent in their advertising—to do so is to invite closed factories and stores.

The advertisements are your guide to good things. Whatever you need, there is an advertisement in these pages that will take you to it—just the kind you want.

SCRUBBING THE FACE WITH COMPLEXION BRUSH IS GRETA GARDO'S BEAUTY SECRET

Greta Garbo, who is one of the most beautiful of the beauties prevalent in Hollywood today, when asked what particular charm keeps her lovely, flawless skin so perfect, announced a daily scrubbing with a good complexion brush. Nothing more exotic than that!

Despite the grease-paint make-up of the screen and the grueling hours under studio lights, this queen of charmers always has a beautiful skin.

Scrubbing, as we mentioned before, is the secret.

"In my country, Sweden," says Miss Garbo, "we do not use gold creams so much as in America. It sounds strange to American ears. I know, but a good soap, plenty of water, and a small skin medicine and cosmetic."

"At night before retiring I remove all traces of make-up, then give my face a hard scrubbing. Then I give the skin a breathing space by going to sleep with no powder or cream to close the pores."

Miss Garbo will next be seen on the screen as the sinister siren in "Flesh and the Devil," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's filmization of Sudermann's "The Undying Past."

STOMACH OF ANIMAL IS TRANSPLANTED

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—For the first time, Dr. A. C. Ivy, physiology professor at Northwestern University, has transplanted the stomach of an animal into a different locality under the skin.

This and other vitally important transplantations in the laboratory, revealed today, have disclosed some facts of interest and importance to human beings, Prof. Ivy pointed out.

Possibly the most interesting to the layman is the fact that the transplanted stomach functions and secretes juices normally when the animal is fed. Medical men are watching the experiment with marked interest, it is stated.

"Such a transplanted pouch acts normally," Dr. Ivy stated. "It is indicated quite clearly that when we eat a meal something gets into the blood, probably a hormone, a substance formed by cells, and secreted into the blood, which in turn controls biological processes in a specific manner."

"We have a dog in the laboratory at the present time that has had his stomach totally removed and has been living in happiness for more than two years. It is true, this dog, instead of gulping, eats slowly, and his food is digested perfectly in the intestinal tract. This experiment has made it possible to know patients that have had part or most of their stomach removed because of cancer, should be fed."

"Beware of piping hot coffee, tea or soup," he added, by way of conclusion. "They sear your stomach lining. The lining becomes red and swollen, and does not secrete normally."

Dr. Ivy and his associates offer the opinion that their research may result in the explanation of the formation of some of the acute gastric ulcers that occur in man.

Jurors May Be Indicted By New Testimony Given

(By Universal Service)

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Testimony which may lead to the indictment of one or more jurors in the Hoffman, Druggan, Lake conspiracy case in federal court, which resulted in the acquittal of the defendants, was given today, it was reported. The informant was said to be Joe Delehanty of Wayne Illinois.

Delehanty came to the big city from the small town and immediately took for his hero Terry Druggan, the millionaire bootlegger, who had sold door knobs all around his castle in Cook county. When Druggan went on trial, Delehanty wrote a letter to a local newspaper stating that the county officials and not Druggan or Lake were responsible for the freedom which was granted to the two bootleggers while they were serving federal sentences in the county jail.

It was out of this freedom that grew the jail scandal which resulted in Sheriff Peter M. Hoffman and Warden Wesley Westbrook serving sentences for contempt of court and their trial for conspiracy to defeat justice.

Today Delehanty was said to have admitted that one of the jurors in the conspiracy case was a boyhood friend and that through Druggan the friend was offered money in order to demand an acquittal. The friend and two other jurors in the case have been questioned and indictments may be expected within a few days.

CONSPIRACY IS CHARGE MADE BY PREACHER

(By GENE FOWLER (By Universal Service))

(Copyright 1926, Universal Service) AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 12.—The militant Rev. J. Frank Norris, fundamentalist of Fort Worth, this evening delivered himself of red hot charges of conspiracy on the part of his enemies to hand-pick a jury to their own particular liking. The dreary tedium of the day, in which but three jurors were selected, stirred the pastor's anger.

"The great array of special prosecutors does not want church members, upright, fair citizens on the jury," he exclaimed on the limestone threshold of Travis county's quaint and aged courthouse.

Still, he seemed gratified with juror No. 7, chosen at 4 o'clock, who was accepted by the state despite the man's outspoken opposition to the death penalty. That juror, W. T. King, a sandy-haired blacksmith with a cheek stuffed snugly with tobacco—or was it gum—said he regarded the death penalty as against his religious scruples. He added he would abide by the evidence and impose such a fate if it were warranted.

Monotonous as was the day's examination, the Rev. Norris, himself as always, relieved the audience from boredom. For example, one of his friends passed out mimeographed copies of the 27th psalm in an anteroom while suggestions of an uncomfortable electric chair for Dr. Norris were being flung about in the old court. That psalm begins:

"The Lord is My Light and My Salvation."
The Rev. Norris is charged with slaying Dexter E. Chipps, Fort Worth lumberman, in the pastor's study last July 17. He claims self-defense, which may be translated in Texas as a belief that some one is seeking to kill you, whether he actually makes a physical threat to do so or not. Maybe a man comes to you unarmed and not planning to attack you, but so long as you can show that you believe your life is in danger, it is the proper etiquette to open fire. And men shoot straight and neat in Texas.

Aside from his expressed belief that some one "higher up" sought to keep open-minded citizens off the jury, the Rev. Norris was as calm as was Gene Tunney at the battle of the Sesqui-centennial. He has a most magnetic personality. He chews gum with all the vigor, but a trifle less noisily, of Will Rogers. Indeed, he has the drawl, the shrewd viewpoint and all but the burlesque instinct of Will, California's most recent mayor.

So varied are the elements that seem to be in the background of this odd trial, that you hesitate to describe it as any one kind of drama in preference to another. Some times it seems to be of the circus type, the wide-brimmed hats of the Texans lending a rodeo flavor to the scene. Again with multitudes of prosecutors and assistant prosecutors putting their heads together like gentlemen bending above some interesting dice, you think of the huddle system in our modern football games. Again, it seems to be the beginning of a prize fight with knockout Norris in one corner, awaiting the going, and battling commonwealth in the other. Of course, there are no trained athletes present—excepting the court clerk, A. Philquist, of University of Texas

FAILURE OF FRANC HITS MONTE CARLO

By C. F. BERTELLI
Special Cable to Universal Service.
MONTE CARLO, Jan. 12.—Lella Emery, popular younger sister of the $10,000,000 Princess Illinski, wife of the Grand Duke Dimitri, is being congratulated on all sides for her singular coolness at the gaming tables.

While women players are never scarce around the roulette wheel, she is one of the few young girls who ever attempted "trente et quarante." In this unusually dull season her steady $200 bets on each turn of the cards has provoked grateful admiration on the part of the sporting club officials. Whether she wins or loses the young American girl maintains the most remarkable indifference, never for a moment permitting a run of bad luck to upset her composure. On the other hand her sister never plays although every night sees her and her husband in the glittering rooms of the sporting club.

During the past few weeks both the club and the Casino are said to have run at a loss. The Mediterranean Coast is, with Paris, the first to suffer in the economic crisis just beginning in France. Both club and Casino can well afford a bad season if figures just issued on the proceeds from the 1926 games at other French resorts are taken as a criterion of Monte Carlo profits.

Deauville, Biarritz, Nice, Vichy, Aix Les Bains and several other smaller places netted 380,000,000 francs according to official statistics. This is an increase of 150 per cent over 1923 and gives an accurate idea of the tremendous paper money prosperity which has reigned for all classes of society in France for the past two years. Just as empty theatres, empty restaurants, half lights in Montmartre and De Luxe trains running at a loss are a sure sign of the franc at four cents, it also means more workless extravagance for the large contingent which for the last two years filled every pleasure resort in this country.

Frank J. Gould, one of the biggest investors in real estate, hotels, clubs, etc., on the Riviera, as well as Henri Letellier, king of Cannes and St. Raphael Casinos, are reported seriously worried over the situation. Letellier, says his friends, has lately given up champagne for dinner, while his bosom friend, Sem, probably the wealthiest artist in Paris today, has purchased a Ford runabout explaining that he could no longer afford taxis.

It is a remarkable fact, however, that in spite of the undeniable general crisis, prices remain stubbornly as high as when the franc was worth two cents. Not only big business, such as automobiles, jewels and furs, clings to high prices, but even the hotels and restaurants decline to reduce them.

Gowns are now as expensive in France as if purchased imported in Fifth Avenue, and a modest luncheon at Ciro's costs at least three American dollars. According to travel experts the present situation may cause a slump in European travel among American tourists and simultaneously boom California during the approaching spring and summer.

Football fame—and there are no muscular men stripped to the sash and wearing little maroon-colored gloves and crunching lumps of resin under soft-soled shoes. Still there is the flavor of the arena and the air of impending clash.

Admiral Latimer Most Able Man In Navy For Nicaraguan Situation Say Fellow Officers

Admiral Latimer known as cool personal bravery got official notice several times in that year.

By FITZHUGH GREEN, Commander U. S. N. (By Universal Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Concensus of opinion among navy men is that no better officer could have been chosen to handle the delicate Nicaraguan situation than Rear Admiral Julian Lane Latimer, who once bore the sobriquet of "Rosie Poker Face."

This nickname was a greater tribute than at first appears. With his ruddy cheeks, regular features and youthful blue eyes the admiral has always stood out as one of the best looking men in the navy. But it has been his perfect coolness and bland inscrutability of countenance in danger that has won him a reputation for "holding his sand" and never showing it.

A naval officer looking out for safety of American lives and property in a foreign country is certainly not in an enviable position. He is between the devil and the deep blue sea. On one hand he may have pinging in his ears a chorus of agonizing cries for help. On the other his instructions from Washington may hold him to a tormenting conservatism.

Naval regulation and custom dictate that the officer on the scene of action shall make no move without having first reported the situation in detail to the secretary of the navy and then receiving his instructions.

If an emergency arise before these instructions are received the naval officer may act at his own discretion. If he makes a mistake he alone is to blame.

Julian Latimer has shown many times in the past that he is capable of hearing the human note in the roar of the mob, yet dare to reserve decision until he is sure. PRESIDENT IS URGED TO BACK BOULDER DAM

By JOHN T. LAMBERT (By Universal Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—An appeal to President Coolidge to breast the opposition of the private power corporations and to press upon congress the urgent need of developing the Colorado River by construction of a great dam at Boulder Canyon was made to him in a conference today by members of congress from nine states.

The widespread support which the project has commanded, as evidenced by the complexion of the delegation, pleased the president greatly.

The entire California delegation, including the members elected for the Seventieth congress, was at the conference. Chairman Addison Smith, Idaho, headed a delegation from the house committee on irrigation and reclamation. Congressmen from Colorado, Kentucky, Wyoming, Illinois, Washington, Alabama and Georgia voiced unstinted approval of the project.

Chairman Smith told the President that the opposition to the private power corporations, with a lobby influence stretching from coast to coast, is now the sole obstacle in the path of the Boulder dam bill. Although the project will irrigate and reclaim 1,000,000 acres of land and protect 75,000 people from the menace of floods. The private corporations are determined to block its passage unless they get control of the 600,000 horsepower of electricity to be generated by it, Smith said.

The bill provides that the government may handle the electric power itself or may dispose of the power rights to private interests. The power corporations want to strip the government of any such discretion in the matter.

"This project has been before congress five years," said Chairman Smith. "It has been amply and carefully studied. There is a movement afoot to send the bill back to my committee in order to have the government stripped of its alternative right in the matter."

"Such a movement would be fatal. The committee is overwhelmingly in favor of the bill as it stands. It will contain no change in it. The house itself would not pass the bill unless the government's rights were protected."

Smith and the other spokesmen urged the President to exert the administration's influence upon the house for early consideration of the bill.

President Coolidge told the delegation he is impressed by the necessity of constructing a great dam that will protect the people from spring floods and summer droughts and that will guarantee a continuous supply of domestic water for the rapidly growing southwest.

He was addressed also by Representatives Swing, Frederick and Lea of California, Taylor of Colorado, Allgood of Alabama, Lankford of Georgia, Summers of Washington and Robison of Kentucky.

You Need More Bile

You need it if you suffer constipation. Bile floods the bowels, keeps them open.
You need it for results or impure blood. Germs in the intestines breed those poisons. Bile is the antiseptic which combats those germs.
You need it for bowel indigestion, for bile is a digestant.
To get more bile you must stimulate the liver. Cathartics never do that. But a gland secretion, derived from beef livers, does. And physicians are prescribing this new help to millions.
That secretion is embodied in Doan's tablets. The results come quickly—in a few hours. To count less people they are bringing priceless benefits today.

The Standard Oil basketball squad has hopes yet of taking home the championship of the Richmond city basketball league. It looked as if there would be a stiff tussle between the La Moines' five and the Oilers but the Pill Rollers failed to be "among those present" so the Gas Makers took the game by default.

The Gas Makers then played a pickup team and took the game by a score of 28 to 8.

MIKE O'KAY—

PLAYERS IN BALL SCANDAL EXONERATED

(By Universal Service)

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Commissioner K. M. Landis' official decision today completely exonerated the White Sox and Detroit players of 1917 and 19 accused by Charles (Swede) Risberg and Arnold (Chick) Gandil, former "Black Sox" of engaging in two "fixed series" of baseball games. The commissioner accepted the testimony of the players involved which was to the effect the White Sox turned over to the Detroit players in the fall of 1917 a sum of money for good work done by the Tigers in an important series against the Boston Red Sox.

Boston was "runner up" to the Chicago Club in the fight for the pennant.

It was this "pool" which Risberg and Gandil charged had been turned over to the Tigers for "sloughing" double headers to the Sox at Comiskey park, September 2 and 3, 1917.

The commissioner also ruled that if the Sox "threw" any games to the Tigers in September 1919 the "throwing" was done by Risberg and Gandil, both of whom admitted under oath having played out of position in that series.

These players have no standing in organized baseball, having been banished with six other "Black Sox" for alleged crookedness in connection with the White Sox-Cincinnati World's series of 1919.

But the commissioner did not fail to censure the members of the 1917 White Sox players who contributed to the "pool" given the Tigers for their work against Boston. He called this an act of impropriety, reprehensible and censurable, but not corrupt.

The final paragraph of the commissioner's decision, after fully reviewing the testimony of Risberg and Gandil and over thirty major league stars and managers of the past and present, follows:

It is the finding of the commissioner that the fund raised by Chicago players about September 28, 1917, was not collected or paid to Detroit players for "sloughing" to Chicago the games of September 2 and 3, 1917, but was paid because of Detroit's beating Boston; that there was no "sloughing" of the September 2 and 3, 1917, games, nor of the September 26, 27 and 28, 1919, games, except possibly by Risberg and Gandil.

The above is the Landis decision in a "nutshell." It means that Ray Schalk, manager of the White Sox, Eddie Collins, former Sox and now a member of the Philadelphia Athletics, Howard Ehmke, Athletics, George Bauss and Harry Heilmann of the Tigers, Donie Bush, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, Urban Faber, White Sox, George Burns, formerly of the Indians, coach Kid Gleason of the Athletics, Clarence Rowland, American League umpire and many former members of the Sox and Tiger clubs, now in the minors will continue their diamond activities undisturbed.

The Landis decision was no surprise. It was freely predicted and admitted by those who read the testimony that the charges would not "hold up." Practically every one of the witnesses called branded the charges false and Risberg and Gandil heard the "lie" passed at them many times during the hearing.

President Johnson of the American League refused to make a lengthy statement on the outcome of the hearing. He said: "It's simply a revival of the cases tried by Judge Landis six years ago when he first was inducted into the office of commissioner."

"These same men were given a clean bill by Landis then. There really was nothing new in the charges, nothing new in their exonerations now."

Nine Boys Face Murder Trial

(By Universal Service)

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Nine boys, the oldest of which is 19, and the youngest seventeen, went on trial today, charged with murder. The state will ask the death penalty for all of them, it was indicated during the questioning of venemur.

It was considered extremely doubtful that a capital verdict will be reached as all of the defendants are minors.

They are being tried in connection with the death of Stanley Ciecia, the father of two children, who died in a street brawl with the nine youths.

The defense will claim that Ciecia died when he fell and his head struck a curb. The state asserts that the youths attempted to rob the man of $40 and a watch.

The boys on trial are Vincent Welles, Vincent Madzey, John Stancil, Henry McGreene, Edward Glassman, Andrew Kosowski, Felix Sebastian, John Janowicz and Matthew Buszyko.

Mate On Tanker Reported Lost

A state wide search has been instituted to locate O. Burgleund, 40, third mate on the Union Oil tanker Cathwood, who mysteriously disappeared Saturday afternoon. The Cathwood docked at the Oleum refinery upon the completion of a run from Los Angeles, and Burgleund told friends among the crew on the boat that he intended to go to Vallejo, but it was later learned, failed to make the intended trip, and had not returned by Sunday morning when his ship left for Los Angeles.

At the time of his disappearance Burgleund had approximately $200 on his person. Officials at the refinery and Captain Fred Phillips of the Cathwood stated that they feared Burgleund had met with foul play. An investigation is being made by the Sheriff's office.

"Coasting" Truck Drivers Arrested

H. W. Price and Charles Boyd, drivers for the J. A. Davis Lumber Company, of Oakland were arrested recently on the San Pablo "tank farm" hit by Highway Patrolman Charles Nissen. Price and Boyd were cited to appear before Justice W. P. Terry, in Pinole, on charges of reckless driving, but ignoring of the citation led to their arrest Tuesday. Both drivers are accused of traveling at a high rate of speed on a down grade with the clutch out or in "neutral."

Their arrest is in accordance with the belief voiced by officers of the Contra Costa traffic squad that it is dangerous to other drivers on highways for trucks to conserve on gasoline and be beyond control for emergency stopping.

FISH TO HAVE HOME COMFORT AT SHEDD POOL

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—When a sea-horse wants a juicy salt water fish for lunch, when a carnivorous fish wants to dine on a live water inhabitant, when a vegetarian fish wants a meal of aquatic weeds, "something just as good" won't do.

Furthermore, the substitute will not be provided in the $3,000,000 John G. Shedd aquarium to be built in Grant Park, Walter H. Chute, associate director, announced today.

Not only will the fishes be provided with their natural foods, but also the delicacies to vary the diet, he said. Such delicacies as snails, angle worms, enchytrae (white worms), lobsters, oysters, clams, crabs, frogs, and house flies will be fed to the sea animals in the aquarium.

There are also to be some cannibal fishes, but these will be denied their choice of foods.

The carnivorous group includes trout, bass, pike and pickerel. They must have "live" food.

Southern Pacific To File Application To Acquire New Railroad Lines In The North counting suit brought by the government under what is known as the Chamberlain-Perris act:

"(B)—To provide funds for the purchase by the Southern Pacific company of the railroad properties of the Oregon and California Railroad company which, over and above the refunding of said bonds, will amount to $35,879,987.77;

"(C)—To provide funds for the purchase of the properties of the Marion and Linn County Railroad company for the sum of $34,322.27;

"(D)—To reimburse the treasury of the Southern Pacific company in the amounts heretofore expended in the purchase of seven small railroads in Oregon some years ago, together with the amounts expended in making improvements on such properties;

"(E)—To provide moneys for further needs of Southern Pacific company's lines in Oregon."

"The properties of the Oregon and California Railroad company consist of the present main line operated by the Southern Pacific company between Portland and the California-Oregon state lines, together with a number of branches mainly in the Willamette Valley, of a total mileage of 682.82," the statement continued.

"The properties of the Marion and Linn County Railroad company consist of a line of railroad 2.24 miles in length in Marion county, Oregon, extending from Hoover to Idanha.

"The effect of the transaction will be to place the Southern Pacific company in the direct ownership of its principal lines in Oregon, formerly held by it indirectly through its ownership of the capital stock of the companies named which will be eliminated. The plan is intended to provide for funds to retire the outstanding Oregon and California bonds, with adequate provision for additional bonds upon which to obtain moneys for future development in Oregon and will also eliminate intermediate corporations now wholly unnecessary, and simplify corporate and financial relationships.

"The proposals will not affect the operating of the lines in Oregon."

Girl Beaten And Thrown From Car

(By Universal Service)

OAKLAND, Jan. 12.—A well dressed and lavishly jeweled girl with a mop of long golden curls, lies in Highland hospital here tonight, unidentified and apparently the victim of gangsters who buried her early today from a speeding automobile and left her crumpled in the street at Forty-eighth avenue and East Fourteenth street.

A card bearing the name of a resort keeper in Emeryville indicated to police detectives that the girl may have had knowledge of Emeryville run runners and was "taken for a ride" to silence her. She bore evidence of suffering a terrific beating before she was tossed from the speeding automobile.

A patrolman saw the sedan from which the girl was thrown speeding away from the scene a few moments before the girl was discovered.

Nothing in the girl's clothing gave a clue to her identity, with the exception of her jewelry. These pieces of jewelry are being examined closely for clue to her identity.

Movie Actress Given Divorce

(By Universal Service)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—Baroness Wilhelm von Brincken, formerly Bertie Mae Rogers, of Atlanta, and now a film actress, was enjoying her freedom today after having been given a divorce by Superior Judge Summerfield.

The fact that her husband made "odious comparisons" about her counted heavily in the granting of the decree.

"He was forever comparing me with other women," the Baroness told the judge. "He would point out a trowsy looking woman and tell me I looked worse than she did. And he was brutal to me, too."

According to the actress, Baron von Brincken is a technical director in motion pictures. During the war he was military attaché at the German consulate in San Francisco and was interned. The couple were married Nov. 2, 1923.

Movie Czar May Take Hand In Famous Chaplin Divorce Action

Operatives of the Burns agency, employed by Mrs. Chaplin's attorneys, patrolled the beautiful gardens surrounding the mansion on a Beverly hilltop. Servants wearing bewildered expressions peeped out the windows as a detective seated himself in a comfortable swing on the front porch. The rest of the servants are Japanese, their traditional cam was visibly upset by the new state of affairs.

One of them was industriously cleaning the silverware as though the master of the house might return at any moment.

Another was running a vacuum sweeper over the rich Oriental rugs in the drawing room.

"Disturb Chaplin's sleep to keep clean—he come back," he explained.

The head gardener and three assistants were digging up the dying lawn and covering it with new soil, while behind the house the big swimming pool was empty. The comedian's four automobiles were locked up in the garage while the uniformed chauffeur strolled aimlessly about.

Detectives working under the orders of Mrs. Chaplin's attorneys, Edwin McMurray and Young and Young, began a search of Los Angeles banks today in an effort to locate any funds that the screen star may have on hand. They carried with them certified copies of the court order granting the receivership application.

With the Chaplin studio and home already in their official possession, the receivers today began the tremendous job of taking over the rest of Chaplin's various interests, which they will administer until the receivership is lifted. When they have all of Chaplin's assets under their control, it is estimated that they will be responsible for approximately $15,000,000 worth of property. Mrs. Chaplin claims in her suit that $10,000,000 of this is community property.

Appointment of the receivers tied up the Chaplin millions completely. Lyndol Young, one of Mrs. Chaplin's counsel, asserted today. "But," he said, "a large part of Mrs. Chaplin's fortune was invested in bonds and gilt edge securities, we understand, and it may be hard for the receivers to locate them. The receivers, of course, can take them over if they can find them, no matter what part of the United States Mr. Chaplin may have sent them.

Granting of the receivership application was the most important legal step since Mrs. Chaplin filed her suit last Monday.

Lloyd Wright, attorney for Chaplin in Los Angeles, refused today to say whether his famous client will file a cross complaint in answer to Mrs. Chaplin's charges. He also withheld comment on the unexpected move made by the opposition yesterday when they obtained the receivership order from Presiding Judge Walton J. Wood.

Originally, the hearing on this application was set for next Monday morning, but Mrs. Chaplin's attorneys decided to rush the matter. They gave as their reason the belief that the actor was preparing to remove many of his belongings, including valuable art treasures, from Hollywood.

No word came from Chaplin today as to his whereabouts or the time he would return here. Unless he has changed his plans to appear Friday in New York at a hearing in connection with his $500,000 libel suit against the Pictorial Review, he should be midway of his journey now. His attorney and close friends declared that they did not know "exactly" where he was this afternoon.

Many Mexicans Members of M. E. Church In Mexico

(By Universal Service)

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Some 10,425 Mexicans are actively connected with the Methodist Episcopal church in Mexico, according to figures made public here today.

Of this number, 9,865 are members of the church, and 562 are baptized children under instruction, preparatory to being received as members.

The board of foreign missions has thirteen missionaries in Mexico, and the Woman's Foreign Missionary society has twenty-four. Altogether, there are 672,431 members of the church in foreign lands, and 197,126 baptized children under instruction.

The figures were compiled by Dr. William B. Tower, of New York City, recording secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions.

"In 34 countries, the board has 1,125 missionaries working," he reported, "as pastors, evangelists, teachers, doctors, dentists, nurses, agricultural specialists, and others."

STRANGLER IS NOT CAPTURED

(By Universal Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—Trapped in the act of strangling a woman in front of her home this afternoon, Clifford Pacey, 45, put up a terrific battle before he was finally overpowered by his captors and arrested.

The victim of the fiendish attack, Mrs. Bertha Dougherty, 35, was under the care of a physician tonight.

Mrs. Dougherty was returning from a store, her arms laden with packages, when Pacey, according to the police, attacked and started to choke her. Two passing motorists rushed to the aid of Mrs. Dougherty and forced Pacey to release his grip on Mrs. Dougherty only after a desperate battle.

At first police thought they had captured "the dark stranger" sought for the past ten months as the murderer of six women, but tonight officers declared Pacey did not answer the description of the murderer.

Pacey, police records show, was formerly an inmate of the Napa insane asylum.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Investigation was started today into the shooting last night of Patrolman Paul Murphy, who was said to have been under the influence of liquor. A surface lines motorman told the authorities that Murphy had been shot by a brother officer, Arthur Belling. The motorman said that Murphy had appeared at the car men's shelter, drunk and with gun drawn and that Belling disarmed him by a shot in the arm. At the hospital Murphy claimed that he had shot himself by accident.

THE BEST WAY TO PLAN A HAPPY FUTURE IS TO PLAN A HAPPY HOME!

Mr. House maker

We Have Completed Our Inventory

INVENTORY to us means not only finding exactly the amount of merchandise value in dollars and cents. We ascertain from this stock-taking, the style and finishes, in short, the exact kind of home-furnishings the public want and have been buying and plan our future purchase accordingly.

Now is the time for YOU to take inventory. We might suggest that you start with yourself because all of us need to take stock of ourselves at LEAST once a year. But be sure to take inventory of your HOME, the one place in your life that is most vital. Is it all that it should be? Are you satisfied?

It is indeed surprising the pleasing difference that the placing of one or two additional pieces of furniture will make in a room. Sometimes it is only the placing of a rug or a lamp or a small table that takes away the bare look and gives one of homeiness in the room.

We suggest that you start your inventory of the home and then come in and shop around for ideas. Our salesmen will be pleased to help you and oft times are of valuable assistance in suggestions for your needs.
